

AFRICA

IN SEARCH FOR TRANSITION

TOWARDS RESPONSIBLE CITIZENS

Engineer
MUMINA WA-KYENDO

Author & Speaker | Leadership &
Responsible Citizenship

“

We got to pull ourselves up from the bottom of the pile to a seat at the table!

”

www.realdealhub.com

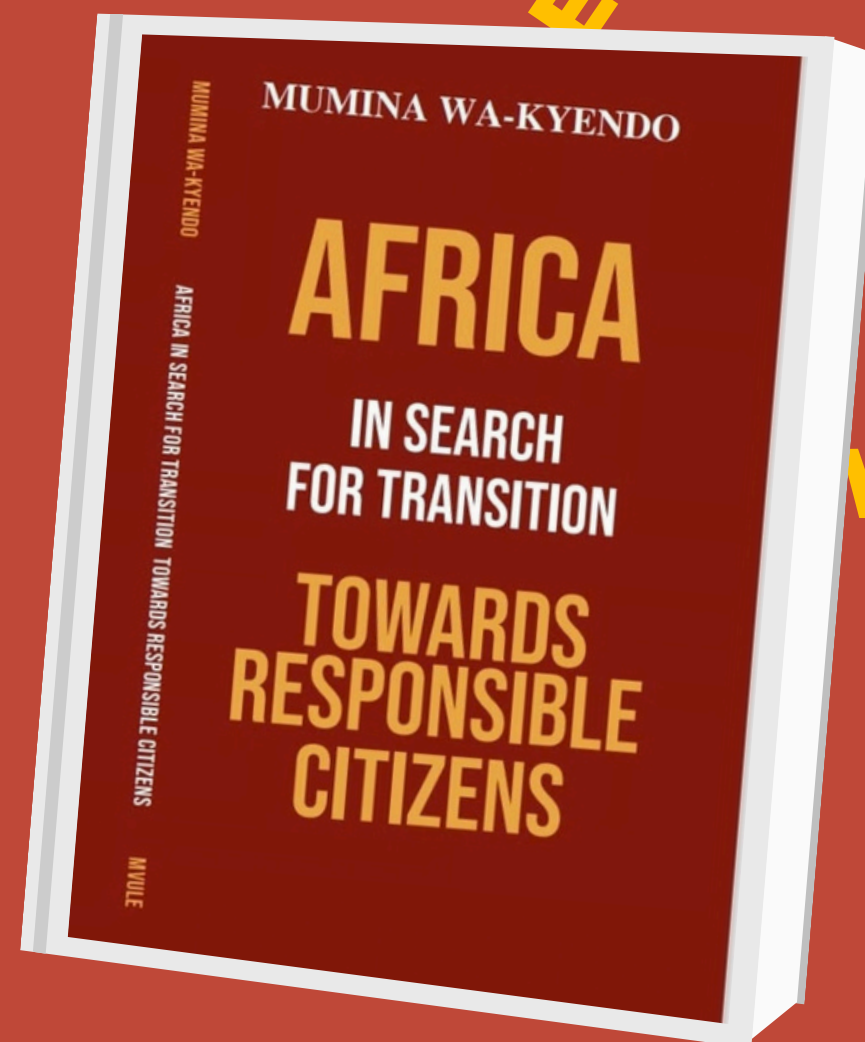

The 2-Book Intellectual Framework

Why are we where we are?

“

Our defective collective thinking patterns make us do what we don't want to do. Analyze that!

”

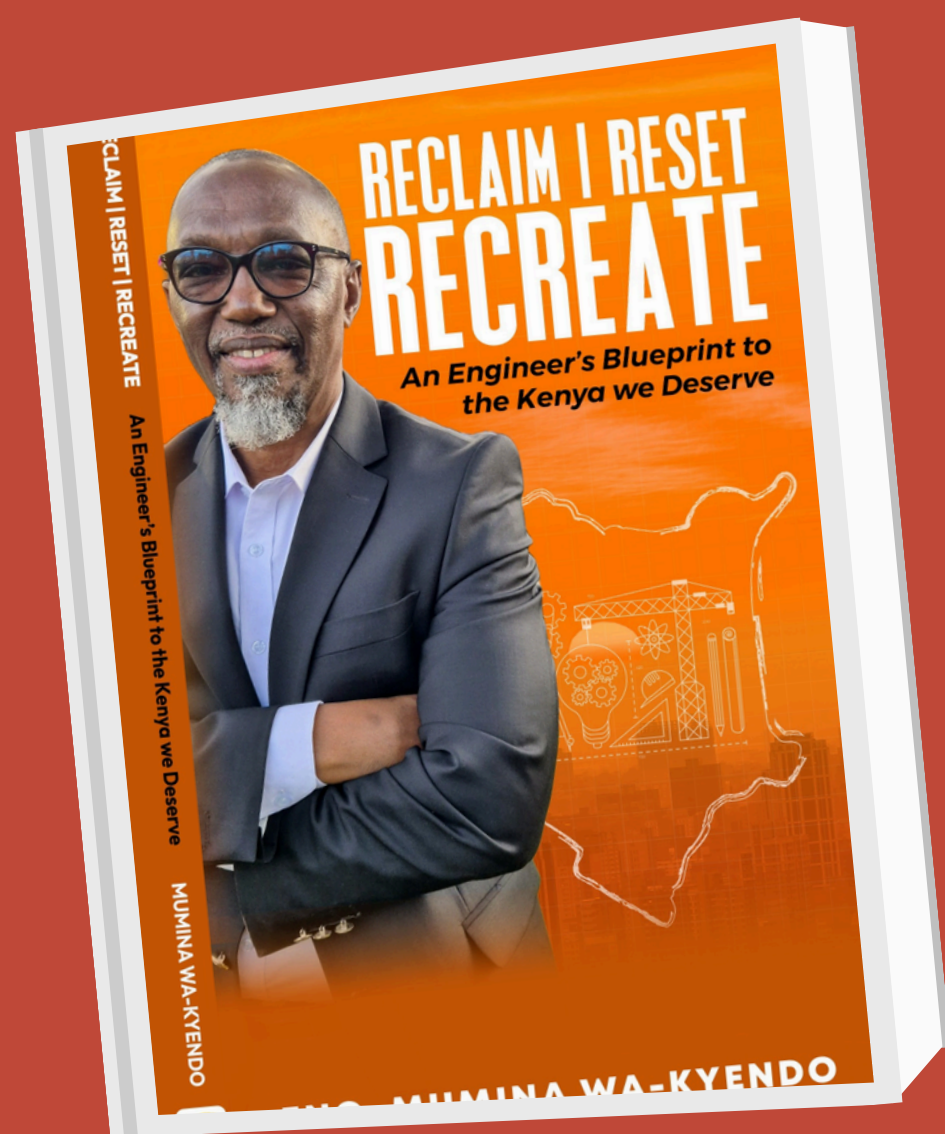

What must we do about it?

“

Reclaim sovereignty.
Reset to good times.
Recreate the future.

”

SPEAKING PLATFORM - Leadership and Responsible Citizenship

THE MOVEMENT - How do we turn the ideas into action?

Speaker Profile

Mumina Wa-Kyendo is an engineer, author and public speaker interested in Africa's leadership, citizenship, institutional development and socio-economic transformation. Engineer Wa-Kyendo holds a First Class degree in Civil engineering, a Masters degree in Transport Engineering, and a MBA from University of Nairobi and United States International University respectively. He is a certified Arbitrator and expert in alternative dispute resolution mechanism. Engineer Wa-Kyendo has served in many countries in Africa and for 35 years was in the trenches building transport infrastructure including roads, railways and airports, in charge of billions of dollar projects.

During his work life, he witnessed the cycle of underdevelopment in Africa, enabled by Africa's twin problem of corruption and poor leadership, two symbiotic evils that have pulled us backwards.

His first book, Africa in Search for Transition Towards Responsible Citizens, Engineer Wa-Kyendo asks why the citizen, the very victim of the vice, has allowed the culture of corruption to entrench itself in the society?

In his second book, Reclaim. Reset. Recreate. An Engineer's Blueprint to the Africa we Deserve, he proposes a series of actions that would reclaim our sovereignty as people, reset our systems to work for the people and provide a platform to create the future we want.

The Mission

Africa's transformation requires more than changing governments and leaders. It requires a transition from passive subjects to responsible citizens who participate actively in building accountable institutions, productive economies and cohesive societies. It requires citizens to transform their collective thinking patterns.

4 Signature Keynote Talks

1 Africa in Search for Transition

Key questions:

What transition is Africa actually seeking? Why has political independence not always translated into economic transformation? What role have African citizens played? What responsibilities belong to leaders? What responsibilities belong to citizens? What kind of citizen does Africa need for the next 50 years?

Ideal Talk For Conferences, universities, governments, churches, NGOs and African forums.

2 From Subjects to Citizens

Colonialism created subjects. Independence created legal citizens. But Africa still needs to create citizens who behave as responsible owners of their nations?

Key Question: Are we able to progress from citizen rights to community-wide development?

Rights → Responsibilities → Participation → Accountability → Development

Ideal Talk For Universities, youth, churches and civic organizations.

3

Leadership Is Not Enough

A strong corporate and professional culture is needed.

Key question:

Can a country be transformed if its citizens, institutions and systems continually undermine good leadership? How do Leadership | Institutions | Ethics | Productivity | Corruption | Responsibility | Accountability interact and contribute towards the development or underdevelopment of a country?

Ideal Talk For CEOs, managers, professionals and government.

4

Reclaim. Reset. Recreate. The Africa We Want

Key Question:

What kind of African citizen must we produce if Africa is to become the continent we believe it can be?
Action!

RECLAIM responsibility for our future by whatever means necessary!
RESET our all: our attitudes, our institutions, our systems so they can serve society. RECREATE the Africa we deserve.

Ideal for young people, schools/universities, churches, leadership conferences, African diaspora organisations.

I'm Available for Talks

Conferences, University
Forums, Executive Forums,
Workshops, Church
Conferences & Civic Forums

Book Me Today

realdeal.wakyendo@gmail.com

+254 117 995 717 | PO Box 4599-00200, Nairobi

www.realdealhub.com

